(CORRECTED)

- The current state sales tax rate on food and food ingredients is 6.0%.
- The first of twelve 0.5% rate reductions would occur July 1, 2007.
- Local option sales tax revenue is unaffected by the provisions of this act.
- It is the legislative intent that the implementation of the Streamlined Sales Tax Agreement (SSTA) within this state shall not amend or otherwise affect tax rates established or authorized pursuant to the provisions of this act.
- According to the Department of Revenue, taxable sales of food and food ingredients in Tennessee for FY05-06 were approximately $7.753 billion.
- Taxable sales of food and food ingredients are estimated to grow by approximately 2.5% per year in subsequent fiscal years.
- Taxable sales for food are estimated to be approximately $8.145 billion in FY07-08 (taking the growth assumption into consideration).
- The first of twelve 0.5% rate reductions would decrease state sales tax revenue in FY07-08 by $40,725,000 ($$8.145 \text{ billion} \times 0.5\% = $40,725,000$).
- Local governments are apportioned a 4.5925% share of state sales tax revenue.
- The first of twelve 0.5% rate reductions would decrease local government revenues in FY07-08 by approximately $1,870,000 ($$40,725,000 \times 4.5925\% = $1,870,295$).
- The first of twelve 0.5% rate reductions would decrease state revenues in FY07-08 by approximately $38,855,000 ($$40,725,000 - $1,870,000 \text{ local share} = $38,855,000$).
- The estimated fiscal impacts for FY08-09 and for subsequent fiscal years are adjusted to reflect 2.5% growth of taxable sales.
- The increase of one-time state expenditures for computer programming and software enhancements is estimated to be $100,000.
